Preparations for the multi-ethnic parade of Popolando-MI, Via Cambini on the corner of Via Padova. Popolando-Mi is a multicultural festival which is usually held in June and celebrates people who moved to Milan from all over the world. One of its peak event is the multiethnic parade along Via Padova, the most cosmopolitan street in the city. Once home of immigrants from the south of Italy, especially Naples and Calabria, Via Padova has become a lively multi-ethnic neighborhood with people belonging to different communities especially from northern Africa (Egypt, Morocco, Tunisia), Asia (China, Philippines, India, Bangladesh), Central and South America (Peru, Bolivia, Brazil, Mexico).
